

AUREGAN PASCAL

Rue du 31 décembre, 27
1207 Genève
Pascal.auregan@gmail.com
33 ans

Certified Scrum Master | Project Manager

Dear HR Managers,

When I saw your advertisement for Agile Project Manager on JobUp, I've immediately been keen on this position. Please find below some words to express interest in this offer.

Swissquote seems to be full of challenging technologies and a very dynamic company which increase again my interest for this position.

For several years now, I've been interested in Scrum environment. What I love with Scrum and Agile in general, is the way of thinking to facilitate the work of the team, to help the team to reach the final goal: getting the customer fully satisfied.

In my last experience, I was scrum master at Banque de France in a 7-10 people team. As in many companies, there are still two parts: business teams and IT teams. The communication is often not that easy between the teams. What I succeeded in is to include fully the business team. I was helped by an old member of IT team who went into the business team. The result is that the business team project manager became our product owner and fully took part of the project. I loved to convince day after day the benefits of agile management and specially scrum.

I worked with german people from Bundesbank and that means I am used to work with English speaking people in distant teams. Bundesbank colleagues were from Business team, users, and infrastructure team. I loved to discover how to work together with our cultural differences and I enjoy the idea to work again in a multicultural environment.

I've worked for six years on a JEE project with Spring core 3.5, hibernate 4.3 + JPA 2, and maven 3. During the last year we migrated our Spring webflow + JSF + Richfaces stack to Spring MVC + Angular JS. I worked as a developer as well as backend as frontend layers. I was considered as the technical referent for the CEPH project.

I'm very enthusiastic about joining your company to act as an agile evangelist and to help you to reach our goals.

Thank you for taking the time to consider this application and I look forward to hearing from you in the near future.

Yours sincerely